

Abstract

Active flow control devices and methods are disclosed for improving the aerodynamic efficiency of airfoils. The devices and methods pertain to applying intermittent suction or intake 5 of low-energy boundary layer fluid into airfoils in a manner delaying or eliminating boundary layer separation.